

DEC 1929

Juice of Grapes from the Vine

ODAY there is a new appreciation for the value of this pure of choicest Concord, fresh the vine. For in each glass are and the health-giving qualities of fresh fruit. Use Welch's daily for health.

u strict adherence to highest ards—Welch Quality is main-
d and makes this the ideal "fruit
e vine" for the Sacrament.

ape Juice Company, Westfield, N.J.

OFFICIAL JOURNAL

General Conference Quadrennium
1929—1932

MINUTES OF The New York Conference

of the Methodist Episcopal Church and Laymen's Association

1929

J. Robert Halmshaw, Editor
New Paltz, N. Y.

C. Everett Wagner, Business Manager
233 West 48th St., New York

PRICE, 50 CENTS

a touch of distinction about him, a distinction of character and culture which with his mental alertness and precision made him a notable and influential member of any group.

Vachel Lindsay represents Gen. William Booth, "Eyes still dazzled by the ways of God," entering heaven to the crashing welcome of bass drums and banjos and flutes and tambourines which played havoc with the angel choir. That was a fitting conception for such a crusading soldier leader of the field forces of God. With Josiah Tetley we may be sure that while the welcome was quieter it was royal. More like the splendor of dawning light or the beauty of opening leaf, but with the clear recognition of the courage and patience of his life as the Lord said, "Thou hast been faithful. I will make thee ruler." And there where

"The Master of all good workmen shall set us to work anew"

"Doubtless unto him is given
A life that bears immortal fruit
In those great offices that suit
The full grown energies of Heaven."

WALLACE MACMULLEN

REV. S. GEDNEY KEYSER

IT is the good fortune of the writer to have always lived in a Methodist parsonage. My earliest recollections are associated with the home of a Methodist preacher in a rural section of the New York Conference. In those days ministers frequently visited at each other's homes. They exchanged pulpits. They assisted one another in special revival services. They stopped at the parsonage when driving through the village. So, as a boy, I came to be very familiar with the faces and voices of many Methodist preachers who were co-laborers with my father in the work of the ministry. It seems in this way that I have always known Brother Keyser. His face and name are associated with a group of splendid men, who joyously and patiently rendered faithful service for Methodism and the Kingdom of God in fields that were sometimes most difficult. These men were then in the prime of life. To-day most of them have fallen asleep.

In more recent years the privilege of closer acquaintance and more intimate fellowship with this preacher friend came to me. During his retirement Brother Keyser came to make his home with his daughter, Mrs. M. S. Buckbee, in White Plains, N. Y. Each Sunday morning, with rare exceptions, he was present in the House of God—a devout and reverent worshiper. At the communion service his presence and prayers were a benediction to all. In manner modest and retiring, he seemed at times almost diffident but always with dignity and sincerity he comported himself as a true ambassador of Jesus Christ. It was always a delight to have him stop at the parsonage for a little visit. His mind was so keen and alert. His interest in world events never ceased, and his comments were always thoughtful and thought provoking. Withal there was a genial humor, constantly coming into play which lightened his countenance and added brightness to his conversation.

Silvanus Gedney Keyser was born in New York City on October 21, 1845, the son of John and Harriet Dixon Keyser, prominent members of the Washington Square Methodist Episcopal Church. His father, a contractor and builder, was Registrar of New York City during Lincoln's administration.

At an early age he felt he was called to preach and, upon graduation from New York University and the Union Theological seminary, was admitted to membership in the New York Conference in 1869. While at New York University he became a charter member of the local chapter of the Delta Upsilon Society, a national social fraternity.

His was a continuous ministry of 49 years. In 1918 he retired from the active ministry and purchased a home at Fishkill, N. Y., where he resided for several years.

In 1872 he married Florence Delight Barringer, of Rhinebeck, N. Y., who died in 1904. Three children were born to them. Ralph T. Keyser, a lawyer of New York City and Montclair, N. J.; Mrs. M. S. Buckbee, of White Plains, N. Y., and Florence Amella Keyser, who died at the age of eighteen. In 1907 he married Mrs. Mary Curtis Beers, of Bayonne, N. J., who died fifteen years later. Subsequently he married Mrs. Ella H. Bellows, of Baltimore, Md., who survives him.

His long ministry was a varied and many-sided one. As pastor, administrator, moral and religious leader, he was always an example of fidelity and strength, though primarily he was a gifted preacher of charm and power. In his ministrations to the sick and bereaved, he was much sought after because of his innate sympathy, and his funeral eulogies were particularly noted. As administrator, his executive ability was several times called upon in the rebuilding of churches of which he was pastor, and his untiring efforts in evangelistic work resulted in many conversions. After several months' illness, his death occurred at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Buckbee, White Plains, N. Y., on August 14, 1928. He was buried at Rhinebeck, N. Y.

He loved his Pulpit and upheld the Cross,
"For Christ he counted all things else but loss."
His work on Earth was splendidly complete.

For Heaven's reward the Master deemed him meet.

FRED H. DEMING.

REV. SAMUEL BULLEN

SAMUEL BULLEN was born at Callington, England, February 26, 1865. His parents were members of the Church of England, and his early training was in that faith. At the age of sixteen he joined the Wesleyan Methodist Church. From then until the time of his death he was a Methodist. At eighteen he was accepted as a Local Preacher on trial. Two years later, at Bacup, Lancashire, he became a duly accepted Local Preacher. In this relationship he served for six years, preaching almost every Sunday; often walking as far as twelve miles to his appointments. For this service he received no remuneration. The Wesleyan Methodist Church provided a study course for the Local Preachers, under the direction of the more scholarly ministers of the Conference. It was there that our brother laid the foundation for all his subsequent studies.

In 1890 he came to America. After a short stay with relatives in New York City he came to Newburgh, N. Y., and joined St. John's Methodist Episcopal Church. From that church he went out into our ministry. After serving as supply pastor for three years he was received on trial. For twenty-four years he did the work of a good minister of Jesus Christ, serving some of the hardest charges within the bounds of this Conference. He was a great reader, a student and a thinker. Official members of some of the churches he served have borne testimony to the high quality of his preaching.

The period of his active service among us was too short. His white hair and his partial deafness gave him the appearance of a man much beyond his years. He was highly sensitive on this point and in 1917 he rather hastily decided to take the retired relation.

In 1888 he married Miss Alice Foxcroft, who at the present is living in Newburgh. There are two sons living—Osborn, of Lynn, Mass., and Allen, of Detroit, Mich. A third son, Vincent, saw service in the Navy during the World War. He died November 25, 1925.

It was my great pleasure to be associated with Brother Bullen in St. John's Church, Newburgh, during his last days. In many ways he met my ideal of a retired minister. His program was to go to the library nearly every day, to attend two services in the church each week—the Sunday morning service and the mid-week prayer service—and to make occasional calls at the parsonage. His contributions to the prayer meetings were always interesting, well expressed, and often spiritually profound. He was a loyal friend to the pastor, and was always ready to help in any way in which he was able.

After an illness of about four weeks death took him on September 12, 1928. It was appropriate that the funeral service should be held in St. John's Methodist Episcopal Church, Newburgh, N. Y., the church from which he went forth into the ministry in this country, the church where he preached his last sermon, where he gave his last testimony for Christ.

a touch of distinction about him, a distinction of character and culture which with his mental alertness and precision made him a notable and influential member of any group.

Vachel Lindsay represents Gen. William Booth, "Eyes still dazzled by the ways of God," entering heaven to the crashing welcome of bass drums and banjos and flutes and tambourines which played havoc with the angel choir. That was a fitting conception for such a crusading soldier leader of the field forces of God. With Josiah Tettey we may be sure that while the welcome was quieter it was royal. More like the splendor of dawning light or the beauty of opening leaf, but with the clear recognition of the courage and patience of his life as the Lord said, "Thou hast been faithful. I will make thee ruler." And there where

"The Master of all good workmen shall set us to work anew"

"Doubtless unto him is given
A life that bears immortal fruit
In those great offices that suit
The full grown energies of Heaven."

WALLACE MACMULLEN

REV. S. GEDNEY KEYSER

IT is the good fortune of the writer to have always lived in a Methodist parsonage. My earliest recollections are associated with the home of a Methodist preacher in a rural section of the New York Conference. In those days ministers frequently visited at each other's homes. They exchanged pulpits. They assisted one another in special revival services. They stopped at the parsonage when driving through the village. So, as a boy, I came to be very familiar with the faces and voices of many Methodist preachers who were co-laborers with my father in the work of the ministry. It seems in this way that I have always known Brother Keyser. His face and name are associated with a group of splendid men who joyously and patiently rendered faithful service for Methodism and the Kingdom of God in fields that were sometimes most difficult. These men were then in the prime of life. To-day most of them have fallen asleep.

In more recent years the privilege of close acquaintance and more intimate fellowship with this preacher friend came to me. During his retirement Brother Keyser came to make his home with his daughter, Mrs. M. S. Buckbee, in White Plains, N. Y. Each Sunday morning, with rare exceptions, he was present in the House of God—a devout and reverent worshiper. At the communion service his presence and prayers were a benediction to all. In manner modest and retiring, he seemed at times almost diffident but always with dignity and sincerity he comported himself as a true ambassador of Jesus Christ. It was always a delight to have him stop at the parsonage for a little visit. His mind was so keen and alert. His interest in world events never ceased, and his comments were always thoughtful and thought provoking. Withal there was a genial humor, constantly coming into play which lightened his countenance and added brightness to his conversation.

Silvanus Gedney Keyser was born in New York City on October 21, 1843, the son of John and Harriet Dixon Keyser, prominent members of the Washington Square Methodist Episcopal Church. His father, a contractor and builder, was Registrar of New York City during Lincoln's administration.

At an early age he felt he was called to preach and, upon graduation from New York University and the Union Theological seminary, was admitted to membership in the New York Conference in 1869. While at New York University he became a charter member of the local chapter of the Delta Upsilon Society, a national social fraternity.

His was a continuous ministry of 49 years. In 1918 he retired from the active ministry and purchased a home at Fishkill, N. Y., where he resided for several years.

In 1872 he married Florence Delight Barringer, of Rhinebeck, N. Y., who died in 1904. Three children were born to them. Ralph T. Keyser, a lawyer of New York City and Montclair, N. J.; Mrs. M. S. Buckbee, of White Plains, N. Y., and Florence Amelia Keyser, who died at the age of eighteen. In 1907 he married Mrs. Mary Curtis Beers, of Bayonne, N. J., who died fifteen years later. Subsequently he married Mrs. Ella H. Bellows, of Baltimore, Md., who survives him.

His long ministry was a varied and many-sided one. As pastor, administrator, moral and religious leader, he was always an example of fidelity and strength, though primarily he was a gifted preacher of charm and power. In his ministrations to the sick and bereaved, he was much sought after because of his innate sympathy, and his funeral eulogies were particularly noted. As administrator, his executive ability was several times called upon in the rebuilding of churches of which he was pastor, and his untiring efforts in evangelistic work resulted in many conversions. After several months' illness, his death occurred at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Buckbee, White Plains, N. Y., on August 14, 1928. He was buried at Rhinebeck, N. Y.

He loved his Pulpit and upheld the Cross,
"For Christ he counted all things else but loss."
His work on Earth was splendidly complete.

For Heaven's reward the Master deemed him meet.

FRED H. DEMING.

REV. SAMUEL BULLEN

SAMUEL BULLEN was born at Callington, England, February 26, 1865. His parents were members of the Church of England, and his early training was in that faith. At the age of sixteen he joined the Wesleyan Methodist Church. From then until the time of his death he was a Methodist. At eighteen he was accepted as a Local Preacher on trial. Two years later, at Bacup, Lancashire, he became a duly accepted Local Preacher. In this relationship he served for six years, preaching almost every Sunday; often walking as far as twelve miles to his appointments. For this service he received no remuneration. The Wesleyan Methodist Church provided a study course for the Local Preachers, under the direction of the more scholarly ministers of the Conference. It was there that our brother laid the foundation for all his subsequent studies.

In 1890 he came to America. After a short stay with relatives in New York City he came to Newburgh, N. Y., and joined St. John's Methodist Episcopal Church. From that church he went out into our ministry. After serving as supply pastor for three years he was received on trial. For twenty-four years he did the work of a good minister of Jesus Christ, serving some of the hardest charges within the bounds of this Conference. He was a great reader, a student and a thinker. Official members of some of the churches he served have borne testimony to the high quality of his preaching.

The period of his active service among us was too short. His white hair and his partial deafness gave him the appearance of a man much beyond his years. He was highly sensitive on this point and in 1917 he rather hastily decided to take the retired relation.

In 1898 he married Miss Alice Foxcroft, who at the present is living in Newburgh. There are two sons living—Osborn, of Lynn, Mass., and Allen, of Detroit, Mich. A third son, Vincent, saw service in the Navy during the World War. He died November 25, 1925.

It was my great pleasure to be associated with Brother Bullen in St. John's Church, Newburgh, during his last days. In many ways he met my ideal of a retired minister. His program was to go to the library nearly every day, to attend two services in the church each week—the Sunday morning service and the mid-week prayer service—and to make occasional calls at the parsonage. His contributions to the prayer meetings were always interesting, well expressed, and often spiritually profound. He was a loyal friend to the pastor, and was always ready to help in any way in which he was able.

After an illness of about four weeks death took him on September 12, 1928. It was appropriate that the funeral service should be held in St. John's Methodist Episcopal Church, Newburgh, N. Y., the church from which he went forth into the ministry in this country, the church where he preached his last sermon, where he gave his last testimony for Christ.

New York Conference, 1928

- Station and North Salem; '16-17, Buchanan and Boscobel; '18-21, Irvington and East View; '22—Tuxedo, N. Y.
- Hurn, James A. 1902-04, North Egremont; '05-09, Phoenicia; '10-11, South Bethlehem; '12-13, Falls Village; '14-15, Gardnertown; '16, Downsview; '17-22, Livingston Manor and Parksville; '23-24, Red Hook; '25—Missionary in Japan.
- Iglehart, Charles W. 1906, Pleasant Valley; '07-08, Mount Hope; '09—Missionary in Japan.
- Iglehart, Edwin T. 1900, Washingtonville; '01-04, Carmel; Japan Conf., '04-07, New York Conf.; '08—Missionary in Japan.
- Inman, Jonas. 1892-93, Purchase; '94-95, Lake Mahopac; '96-1900, Armonk and Middle Patent; '01-03, Wappingers Falls; '04-08, Hyde Park and Staatsburg; '09-10, Perry St.; '11-13, Jane St., New York; '14-15, Central Pleasantville; '16-18, Philmont; '19-23, Cold Spring; '24—Rhinebeck.
- Jamleson, Arthur. 1890-91, Mongaup Valley; '92-93, Yorktown Heights; '94 Pine Bush; '95-97, Deposit; '98-1901, Grace, Newburgh; '02-04, Eighteenth St.; '05-10, Supt. Newburgh Dist.; '11, St. Paul's, Peekskill; '12-18, Park Ave., New York; '19, Washington Square, New York; '20—Duane, New York.
- Johnson, F. Ernest. Detroit Conf., 1908, Holly, Mich.; '09-11, Left without appointment to attend school; New York Conf., '12-13, St. Paul's, New York (Associate); '14-15, Forty-fourth St., New York; '16, Principal, New York Deaconess Training School; '17, Principal School for Christian Work, New York Deaconess Home; '18-19, Duane, New York; '20-23, Research Sec. Fed. Council of Churches of Christ in America; '24—Executive Secretary, Department of Research and Education, Federal Council of Churches.
- Jones, John. Dakota Conf., 1893-1902, Coleman; '03-08, Deil Rapids; Vermont Conf., '09-13, Bethany, Hardwick; East Maine Conf., '14-16, Clark Memorial, Bar Harbor; '17-18, Knight Memorial, Calais; New York Conf., '19-20, Coeymans; '21, Bloomville and Roses Brook; '22-23, Pine Bush; '24-25, Garrison, North and South Highland; '26—Chelsea.
- Keil, Charles J. F. 1921-22, Uriton and Lambs Corners; '23-24, Cornwallville and East Durham; '25, Pine Hill and Shandaken; '26—Athens.
- Keil, Donald T. 1926-27—Left without appointment to attend school; '28—Vails Gate and Mountainville.
- Kelley, Robert H. 1892-93, Gilboa; '94, St. John's, Newburgh (Associate); '95-96, Griffin Corners; '97, Without appointment to pursue special study; '98-1900, Hartsdale; '01-03, Tuckahoe; '04-06, Lake Mahopac; '07-08, Katonah; '09-11, Bedford St.; '12-13, Trinity, Kingston; '14-17, Executive Secretary Conference Commission on Finance; '18-20, Liberty; '21-23, Trinity, Newburgh, N. Y.; '23-26, Washington Street, Poughkeepsie; '27—First, Yonkers.
- Kerr, Grenville E. 1891-92, Copake; '93-94, Wing Station; '95-97, Bloomingburg; '98-1902, Spencertown; '03-06, Jefferson; '07-08, Arkville and Dry Brook; '09-12, Bloomville; '13-15, Windham; '16-17, Woodstock; '18—Retired.
- Keyser, S. Gedney. 1869-71, Hillside and Riverside; '72-73, Modena; '74-75, Sugar Loaf; '77-79, Cornwall; '80, Highland; '81-82, Plattekill Valley and Rossville; '83-84, Lake Mahopac; '85, Dobbs Ferry; '86-88, Franklinville; '89-91, Delhi; '92-94, Hunter; '95-97, Goldens Bridge; '98, West Pleasantville; '99-1902, Great Barrington; '03-05, Hartsdale; '06, Roxbury; '07, Athens; '08-10, Banksville and Armonk; '11-13, Yorktown Heights; '14-15, Stockport and Stottsville; '16-17, Fishkill; '18—Retired.
- Kikelhan, Richard. 1884, Fort Montgomery; '85-87, Bellvale; '88-89, Esopus and Cold Springs Corners; '90-92, Montgomery; '93-95, Sloatsburg; '96-98, Andes; '99, Superannuated; 1900-01, Yorktown Heights; '02-03, Hyde Park; '04, Gardnertown; '05-11, Haines Falls; '12—Retired.
- Kilburn, Rolla A. 1913, Left without appointment to attend school; '14, First Church, Pleasantville; '15-16, Vails Gate; '17-18, East Branch; '19, Chaplain in U. S. Army; '20, Interchurch World Movement; '21—Director, Rural Leadership Dept., Board of Home Missions.
- Killinder, Herbert. Cincinnati Conf., 1908-10, Mutual; '11, Christiansburg; '12-13, New Burlington; '14-17, Bethany and Princeton; '18, Chaplain, Army Y. M. C. A.; '19-21, Asbury, Toledo; '20-23, Mt. Healthy, Cincinnati; New York Conf., '24-26, Andes and Pleasant Valley; '27—Marlboro.

- Knapp, Robert. Trinity, P. Catskill; '03—
- Lakeberg, Arv. Swedish Co. out appointingville, Norton
- Lang, Otto W.
- Lang, William. Motte; '03 Conf., '15—North Germ
- Lare, Fred L. Valley; '1 White Lak Livingston
- Leadbeater, Jo. '01, Olive; '10-12, Pin Yonkers; ' cliff and H
- Lincoln, Henry. cliff.
- Lincoln, Joel F. Prattsville gomery; '0 ston Manc —'20-21, W —Hurleyvi
- Livingston, C. F. '27, Hunter
- Lofthouse, Wa. Pa.; '04, E Drew Theo Yonkers, M '15-21, Wal keepsie Dis
- Lull, John S. New Hamb 16, Milton; Goldens Br
- Lyons, James J. ham; '27—C
- MacCormac, Sar. ington; '28—
- MacCutcheon, S. age; '71-73, ham Four Mills; '85-8 Barrington; ville; '94, S North Germ '10—Retired
- MacDonald, Geo. Ravena; '0 '20-25, Super
- Mace, Obed. I. '10, New B Heights; '1 lawn Height
- Mackey, Charles. cinnati; '96 New York C '11-12, Lee Stephen's, N