HENRY S. TALBOTT.

Rev. Henry Stanton Talbott, third on the roll of the Indiana Conference, died in Orleans, Indiana, September 8, 1881. He was born in Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania, October 18, 1801, the eighth of eighteen children of James Talbott, who was a local preacher, and for seventy years a devoted member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. A younger son, John, also was licensed to preach, and is now a member of the Indiana Conference. Henry studied medicine under Dr. Stanton, father of Hon. Edwin M. Stanton, President Lincoln's Secretary of War, and simultaneously was taught the watchmaker's art. The two-fold knowledge thus acquired was often put to good advantage in after life. While yet a youth he came to Indiana, and was married to his present bereaved companion, June 7, 1826, in Spencer county, and they became the parents of ten children, all of whom have joined the Church? and one, Henry J., is a member of the Indiana Conference, and stationed at Meridian Street, Indianapolis. Dr. Talbott was converted under the labors of a minister by the name of Fisher, and in 1830, with E. R. Ames and others, was received on trial by the Illinois Conference at Vincennes, Indiana, and was admitted into full connection at the first session of the Indiana Conference, at New Albany, in 1832, and was ordained deacon by Bishop Roberts, who, two years thereafter, at Connersville, ordained him an elder. He was appointed as junior preacher on Salem Circuit, afterwards in charge of Bedford, then Paoli two years, Supernumerary one year, Lafayette two years, Presiding Elder of Bloomington and Vincennes districts, each two years, Evansville district one year, Vincennes district again four years, pastor at Spencer, Lexington, Hanover, New Washington, Belleville and Gosport Circuits each one year, Presiding Elder of Cannelton district four years, in charge of Centerville, in Spencer county, two years, Financial Agent of Rockport Collegiate Institute two years, in charge of Jonesville, Williamsburgh and Spencer, each one year, agent of Preachers' Aid Society one year, superannuated one year, in charge of Bowling Green two years, Patricksburgh, Freedom, Orleans and Orangeville, each one year, superannuated nine years. During all this time he never failed to be present at the sessions of his Conference, and had fixed his clothes and polished his boots on the day before preparatory to attendance on the session during which he died. At the last session in New Albany, in response to a formal invitation, he delivered a semi-centennial discourse, which attracted a large congregation who were greatly stirred on the occasion.

His funeral was conducted at the family residence, by John Walls, Presiding Elder of the district, and L. F. Cain, his pastor, assisted by representatives from the Conference, John Laverty, Lealdes Forbes and William Meginnis. He was a delegate to the General Conference at Pittsburgh in 1848, and to that at Indianapolis in 1856. Though extremely modest, he was pushed to the front rank among his brethren. He was an able preacher and sound theologian, clear in his statements and firm in his convictions. Bishop Ames said of him: "He is one of the purest men I ever knew, and a preacher whose hearers are always edified." Loyal to the church and possessed of superior business qualifications, in the eighth year of his ministry he was called to the Presiding Elder's office, which he filled efficiently for fifteen years. As a presiding elder, he governed well; as a pastor, he obeyed read ily; as a man, he was conscientious and a hater of all shams. Though small in stature he surmounted all obstacles, and being capable of great endurance he often walked long distances in the accomplishment of his purposes from which he would not be swerved. Like all others, he was sorely tried when superannuation became necessary, but he was still devoted to the church and faithful to the Saviour whom he had so long preached. His last illness dated from June, 1880, when he began to suffer from liver trouble of which he could not be relieved, and, when taken with the last chill, he became unconscious; so that, though he had previously expressed himself as ready and willing for the change, he was unable to bequeath any dying words, but he could not have left any better testimony than that which he did leave-a long and eventful life well and consistently spent in the service of the Master.

MARY L. HEAVENRIDGE.

Mary L. Heavenridge was born in Sullivan county, Indiana, July 31, 1851. She died in Mitchell, Indiana, May 14, 1881. She joined the Methodist Episcopal Church and was converted in 1864. She was married December 6, 1871, to Rev. M. S. Heavenridge, now of the Indiana Conference.

With him she traveled Bruceville, Freedom, Carlisle, Prairieton, and Paoli Circuits. One year ago her husband was appointed to Mitchell Station. Thither she went with him to die. Here she closed her labors, and the Saviour came and took her.

She was a woman of rare native ability. She was faithful and industrious in the culture of her powers. She combined these with a warm heart and unswerving loyalty to the church. They eminently fitted her for the position she occupied as the wife of a minister of the gospel of the Lord Jesus.

In all the stations in life she was called upon to fill, she manifested that womanly dignity, and faithfulness in the performance of her duties, that commanded the respect and love of all with whom she came in contact. She never wearied in her labors of love, either for the poor and afflicted, or the church. In her, every soul that was striving for a purer and a higher life, was sure to find sympathy and ready help. She was in love with life, because it was in harmony with her living self. Her life was in harmony with all in nature that was pure and good, because she herself was pure and good.
