Rosebush-Evans Vows Exchanged

Couple Wed At St. Joseph's Rectory, Yesterday

Miss Evelyn Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Evans, of Lengtree, became the bride of William Rosebush, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Rosebush, of Second street, in quiet rites read at the rectory of St. Joseph's church at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. The Rev. Fr. James Parent officiated in the ceremony in which the couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Andrews.

Buda-Lochinski Vows Are Spoken

St. Hyacinth's church was scene of a simple but pretty wedding recently when Miss Irene Lochinski and Conrad Buda spoke their vows before the Rev. Fr. Joseph Lewandowski and 100 relatives and close friends.

The bride was lovely in a bridal gown cut on simple princess lines, her double veil fell from a tiara of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses and sweet peas. The maid of honor, Miss Virginia Herrick, wore pink organza. The two bridesmaids, Miss Geraldine Andrzejewski, in peach lace, and Miss Caroline Rajewski, in aqua lace, cousins of the bride, carried arm bouquets of carnations, Johanna Hill roses and sweet peas.

Walter Lochinski, of Detroit, brother of the bride, was best man.

Following the ceremony breakfast was served to about 25 guests at the Lochinski home. A reception was held in the evening.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Derjo, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Jozwiak, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Juczak, Sylvester and Adolph Dolney, all of Detroit; Edward Lochinski, of Saginaw; and Mr. and Mrs. William Tucholski, of Standish.

Mrs. Buda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Lochinski, and Mr. Buda the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Buda, of South VanBuren

Indian Women Advance

American Woman Tells of Life In India

BY ALICE HYATT

CHOOSING books suitable for translation and reading by children in the far east is the life work of Miss Anna Agnes Abbott, of Poona, India, who for the past week has been the house-guest of Mrs. L. B. Richardson at her home on West Midland street.

Miss Abbott who went to India on her first trip in 1900 to teach in a Bible school at Multra remained to take charge of an orphanage established at the close of a famine. At present she has charge of the translation, publication and distribution of Christian literature for the All-India Literature committee of the Women's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Miss Abbott is quite interested about Poona, where the temperature nev-

200,000 and is really a college town. There are agriculture, law, medical, and arts colleges for both men and women there. The young people, especially the young men have a great desire for knowledge," she said.

"The girls are not as advanced but more and more are going to school each year. Education is compulsory in many districts for the grade schools and there is a orphanage established at the close of a famine. At present she has charge of the translation, publication and distribution of Christian literature for the All-India Literature committee of the Women's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Miss Abbott is enthusiastic about Poona, where the temperature never goes above 110 or below 40 degrees above.

"We have three seasons," she said. "The cold weather is in November, December, January, and February, which is followed by the hot season, April, May and June, then come the rains, which are heavy but with few severe storms. We are outside of the earthquake zone too.

"Poona has a population of about and women there. The young people, especially the young men have a great desire for knowledge," she said.

"The girls are not as advanced but more and more are going to school each year. Education is compulsory in many districts for the grade schools and there is a great general movement toward removal of illiteracy and toward adult education."

One difficulty is lack of a universal language although most high school classes are in English. English however will never become the language of the country she said. "There is a trend toward Hindi a derivative of Sanskrit because a greater number of people speak that language. However because of the difference of religions, the Mohammedans and Hindus each wishing their own language, the problem is still unsettled.

Enforced Widowhood.

"Enforced widowhood is still the law. Because of an ancient belief that a wife is responsible for the health of her husband, she is not allowed to remarry after his death. It might have been some sin in her life or even in a previous incarnation but the belief is still strong, even in the cases of child marriages when a girl has never lived with her husband.

"A widow if she has no children has no social position in the family, is never allowed to wear jewelry or gaily colored clothes. If she has children she is a little better off because the mother is given a high place in the family.

"Women however are getting out of their homes more and although they do not go into business they are studying to be teachers, nurses and even doctors. With the new constitution which went into effect this month women were given the vote. One of the qualifications for voters, both men and women is that they must be able to read and write."

At a meeting of the Bay City Woman's club Friday afternoon Miss Abbott spoke briefly on the work being done by Women's conferences in India.

"Women are discussing the type of education to be given girls," she said. They want girls to learn how to make homes and to care for their children. They have also raised the marriage age for girls to 14 years and boys 16, however when the bill went in an amendment was added making the parents pay a fine if they permitted early marriages, which of course, fails to stop it.

"The women are also doing much for the reconstruction in the villages, to improve general living conditions."

Miss Abbott who will return to India soon, has only one more year before her retirement when she plans to return to the states to make her home in California.

IN MEMORIAM

Anna Agnes Abbott

Miss Anna Agnes Abbott, age 86, retired missionary to India, passed away May 4, 1960 at Kingsley Manor, a Methodist Home in Los Angeles, California.

Born in Payson, Illinois, August 21, 1873, she was graduated from the Lucy Rider Meyer Deaconess Training School in Chicago in 1899, attended Chicago University and Biblical Seminary, receiving her A.B. degree from Albion College in 1920.

Prior to leaving for the mission field Miss Abbott taught school for two years, and served as a deaconess in Chicago for five and one half years. She sailed for India in 1900 under the auspices of the Northwestern Branch of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, serving in Muttra, Godhra, Bombay, Basim, Puntamba, and Poona. During her years of service her work was varied and included both educational and evangelistic work. Her physical resources gave way at one time and she was invalided home and spent practically five years in Clifton Springs Hospital. She returned to India and took up her work again. Because of the difficulty of finding someone able to carry on her work, she remained on the field until she was 74 years of age. She officially retired in September 1949, making her home in California.

Probably her greatest contribution on the field was the preparation, producing and distributing of Marathi literature. She published a comprehensive bibliography of reading material, and translated and published more books to supply the lack of certain subject materials, as she had discovered the need in her contacts with schools and the people of the churches. She was a valuable member of the All India Literature Committee, sharing her knowledge of needs with members of other language areas.

During her retirement Miss Abbott maintained her devotion to the work which had occupied her mind and heart for a long life of service to the church in India.

In Laura Austin's words - "The good she did lives after her."

She was 74 years of age at the time of her departure. Her official retirement was September 1, 1949. At the time of retirement she had served the church, including her work as a Deaconess in Chicago, for fifty-four years.
