ANDERSON, IDA
ANDERSON, REV. HAMPTON W.
Get Indian Lore Via Choctaw Cleric

The Rev. Hampton W. Anderson, a Choctaw Indian, has devoted much of his life to furthering the cause of the American Indian, both as a government worker and more recently as a Methodist minister.

He spoke recently on Indian lore at an American Indian Festival in the Fisherman's Methodist Church, 228 Bay 39th St., Brooklyn, as part of his duties as associate director of field work of the Methodist Board of Missions.

Born in Indian territory in Oklahoma in 1885, he entered the government service in 1914 in the Bureau of Indian Affairs. In 1948, he was ordained a minister and given the task of drumming up financial and moral support across the nation for the church's Indian missions.

An alumnus of Haskell Institute, where he played quarterback on the football team, and Oklahoma University, he is an avid sports enthusiast and roots particularly for Oklahoma, perennial gridiron power of the Southwest.

Wife a Teacher

Her wife, also a Choctaw, teaches at a government-supported Indian school in Chillicothe, Okla. He has a son, Hampton W., Jr., a captain and career man in the Army, and two daughters, one married and one who is employed at the Tinker Air Force Base in Oklahoma City.

A business administration major at Haskell who later took personnel management training at Oklahoma U, the Rev. Mr. Anderson had a varied career prior to his entry into the ministry.
Indian missions.
An alumnus of Haskell Institute, where he played quarterback on the football team, and Oklahoma University, he is an avid sports enthusiast and roots particularly for Oklahoma, perennial grid power of the Southwest.

Wife a Teacher
His wife, also a Choctaw, teaches at a government-supported Indian school in Chilocco, Okla. He has a son, Hampton W. Jr., a captain and career man in the Army, and two daughters, one married and one who is employed at the Tinker Air Force Base in Oklahoma City. A business administration major at Haskell who later took personnel management training at Oklahoma U., the Rev. Mr. Anderson had a varied career prior to his entry into the ministry.

This included running his own petroleum refining industry, working for the Agriculture Department and, during World War II, the War Department. He had transferred to the Army Engineer Corps after the war and was set for assignment overseas to Manila, when he ran into a group of representatives of the Methodist Board of Missions.

Signed Up on Spot
The conversation turned to Indian missionary work and he expressed such a knowledge of the problems involved that they mustered him on the spot.

"I said I would like to talk it over with my wife and let them know in a few days," he said. "They picked up a nearby phone and said 'call her.'"

"The idea of becoming a minister had been in the back of my mind for many years and my wife knew it. She told me that 'if the Lord still wants you' to go ahead and do it. I did."
Heavy Nubby Weave

Imagine... one size fits any chair; one size fits any sofa! Marvelous new cover of extra heavy textured cotton blends and other fibers stretches to conform to the size and shape of your furniture—gives it a Ethiopia back. Machine washable, drip-dry, never need ironing. Elastic back assures a perfect fit always. Dramatic ombre-striped effect in shades of predominant Brown, Blue, Gold, Grey or Rose.

ABRAHAM & SONS

$69.50

Brooklyn Section—SUNDAY NEWS, MARCH 18, 1962
9.99

saron Tailored

Curtains

2 prs. $5

259 ea.

"20" or 90" long
each wide per pair

SteelEye class long, easy

double pleat

cascading

Chenille tassel border with shirring

Available in 3 widths

- Peach
- Gold
- Turquoise

Orange with delicate tassels - in pink, gold or turquoise accents.

Add 1 extra, 1-800-3-SHOEPE, or at participating stores, Dept. 003.

T. TAKE MONTHS TO PAY for your Died Dec. 21, 1964
Will you please fill in such questions as are applicable and return to W.W. Reid, Department of News Service, Board of Missions and Church Extension, 150 Fifth Ave., New York 11, N.Y. The information will be available for newspaper releases where you are speaking, and for other news use.

Name: Hampton W. Anderson

Permanent American address: 534 E. Court Street, Atoka, Oklahoma

Where born: Thurman, Indian Territory

Parents' names: David D. and Siney Byington-Anderson, both enrolled full-blood Choctaw Indians.

Schools - Colleges - Degrees (Years)

Jones Academy and Haskell Institute, the first a tribal semi-vocational school and the latter the government-maintained school at Lawrence, Kansas.

What work (where? when?) between school and missionary service:

Government service extending from 1915 through 1946 with the Indian Service, Department of Interior, at Muskogee and field offices throughout southeastern Oklahoma; the Farm Security Administration, Bureau of Agricultural Economics, and Soil Conservation Service, Department of Agriculture; and the War Department. When appointed a missionary (or deaconess or pastor):

September, 1946

When did you first go into mission work? where stationed?

In September, 1946, at Muskogee Indian Mission, Muskogee, Oklahoma.

Places of service -- types of work -- institutions -- years, etc:

Witt Memorial (Indian Church) Tulsa, Oklahoma, pastor, 1947-1948.

Atoka, Oklahoma, superintendent of Eastern District, Indian Mission of Oklahoma, from September, 1948, to date.

Foreign languages spoken; other talents: None; but speak Choctaw and understand Chickasaw and Creek (Indian languages).

Any books written? special research? please describe: While in government service (Indian Resettlement program) and with the Department of Agriculture was privileged to conduct surveys of living conditions, economic standards of people residing on submarginal areas, taking in a large segment of our Indians here in the Oklahoma. Ability to support schools, community activities & interests entered study.

Description of your special work on field (needs of people, opportunities, numbers reached, plans for future, etc.) Anything else of interest to church people, or newspaper readers:

Although we have one urban church in our district, the one at Oklahoma City, our work is primarily rural. Nevertheless, recognizing the hesitancy and reluctance of our people to align themselves with churches in cities to which they have removed, we have followed them to industrial centers and have provided places of worship for them wherever possible. Our great problem is to develop indigenous leadership -- a leadership that will come back to our people and help to lift them
Jones Academy and Haskell Institute, the first a tribal semi-vocational school and the latter the government-maintained school at Lawrence, Kansas.

What work (where? when?) between school and missionary service:

Government service extending from 1916 through 1945 with the Indian Service, Department of Interior, at Muskogee and field offices throughout southeastern Oklahoma; the Farm Security Administration, Bureau of Agricultural Economics, and Soil Conservation Service, Department of Agriculture; and the War Department. When appointed a missionary (by deacons or bishop?):

September, 1946

When did you first go into mission work? where stationed?

In September, 1946, at Muskogee Indian Mission, Muskogee, Oklahoma.

Places of service — types of work — institutions — years, etc:

Witt Memorial (Indian Church) Tulsa, Oklahoma, pastor, 1947-1948.

Atoka, Oklahoma, superintendent of Eastern District, Indian Mission of Oklahoma, from September, 1948, to date.

Foreign languages spoken; other talents: None; but speak Choctaw and understand Chickasaw and Creek (Indian languages).

Any books written? special research? please describe: While in government service (Indian Resettlement program) and with the Department of Agriculture we were privileged to conduct surveys of living conditions, economic standards of people residing on submarginal areas, taking in a large segment of our Indians here in the Oklahoma. Ability to support schools, community activities & interests entered study.

Description of your special work on field (needs of people, opportunities, numbers reached, plans for future, etc.) Anything else of interest to church people, or newspaper readers:

Although we have one urban church in our district, the one at Oklahoma City, our work is primarily rural. Nevertheless, recognizing the hesitancy and reluctance of our people to align themselves with churches in cities to which they have removed, we have followed them to industrial centers and have provided places of worship for them wherever possible. Our great problem is to develop indigenous leadership — a leadership that will come back to our people and help to lift them up morally and spiritually, as well as economically. Because so many of our people are landless and are, for the most part, dependent upon the pay of unskilled labor, the ground is being laid for the inauguration of cooperatives which appears to be the only way to lift them economically. We rejoice that our people gladly share to the extent of their ability and we have every reason to believe that if they are helped materially their future giving to the causes of the church will correspondingly increase. Lack of a vitalized truancy law contributes to juvenile delinquency. Herein, however, must be considered the matter of the inability of parents to provide adequate clothing for their children to attend school. It is to be borne in mind that, although unable to read and write English, our older generation, both Choctaws and Chickasaws, read and write Choctaw (Chickasaws employ the use of the Choctaw system of writing). Our Leadership Training schools, made possible through the Boards of Missions and Education, are doing a splendid piece of work but such training, important as it is, needs to be supplemented with a formal education and just now financing college education for girls, especially, seems to be most difficult, if not impossible. It is estimated that the general level of education among our people will not exceed that of the fourth grade. The average general income (adult male workers, all classes, and girls and young ladies whose employment extends from domestics to private secretaries) is about $250.00 per capita, annually."

Mrs. Arlettie R. Taylor
Department of News Service
Board of Missions and Church Extension
150 Fifth Avenue
New York 21, N. Y.

Dear Madam:

The blank enclosed with your letter of the 19th has been filled in with the meager biographical data which bears on the subject. The trouble is that he is just an ordinary, very ordinary fellow who hasn't done much and to whom nothing of importance has happened. In other words, he is just plain mill-run whose parents were neither rich nor poor, but who were thrifty and through wise investments had built up one of the finest ranches in the northwest section of the old Choctaw Nation. My father was sixteen years old before he could speak a word of English. With only three years of schooling, he adapted himself to changing conditions and soon acquired small interests in banking and merchandising. My mother, although coming from a full-blood Indian family, never learned to speak our language; however, she understood Choctaw perfectly.

Notwithstanding the language difficulty which my father never completely overcame, he considered any education beyond the common school quite unnecessary to the management of a farm and ranch layout. While he did not oppose, he yet did not encourage my going away to school and it is to a maternal uncle, Simon Byington, to whom I am indebted for the academic and specialized training which I received. At Haskell Institute I took Business Management and Accounting; later completed a specialized course in Personnel Management. My grandfather, David J. Byington, was a Baptist minister and in his study I learned to concentrate on religious subjects. Most of my life was spent as a member of the Baptist Church. My conversion to Methodism came about as I realized that only through the Methodist Church could the opportunity be afforded me of serving my people in a manner approximating effectiveness. Perhaps I inherited some of the convictions of a maternal great grandfather who, in addition to serving as a Circuit Judge, was also a Methodist Circuit rider. His name was Rufus Folsom.

Yours sincerely,

[Signature]

H. W. ANDERSON.

[Stamp: Date illegible]
A full-blooded Choctaw Indian, who is an ordained minister of the Methodist Church Eastern District of the one in charge of the Indian Methodist Mission at of Oklahoma, will be the guest-speaker released upon receipt on the Rev. Hampton W. Anderson, of Atoka, Okla., who will speak on the work of Christian churches among the American Indians.

Mr. Anderson was born in Chouteau, then in the old Indian Territory. His father was sixteen years of age before he learned to speak English, and he built one of the finest of the old ranches in the northeastern section of the former Choctaw Nation. On his mother’s side, Mr. Anderson is a great-grandson of Jesse Nelson who was born a U. S. circuit judge and a Methodist Indian circuit rider, and a grandson of David J. Edmonton, a Baptist minister.

The young Anderson was educated at Jones Academy, a tribal semi-vocational school, and at Haskell Institute, Lawrence, Kansas. In the latter he specialized in personnel and business management and in accounting, and thus was trained for government service.

From 1915 to 1946 he spent the years in the Indian Service, the Department of the Interior, the Farm Security Administration, the War Department, and the Department of Agriculture. Meanwhile he had been active as a layman and lay-leader and local preacher in the Indian Mission in Oklahoma. Later Bishop A. Pioneer Smith, who, in 1946, ordained him to full-time Christian ministry.

In 1946 he became pastor of the Chouteau Indian Mission, Okla.; then pastor of the 15th Mission Indian Church in Tulsa; and since 1948, superintendent of one of the districts of the Indian Mission of Oklahoma. He preaches in both English and Choctaw, and understands Chickasaw and Creek Indian languages.

"Although we have one rural church on our district — the one in Oklahoma City — our work is primarily rural," says Mr. Anderson. "Nevertheless
A leader in Methodist work among the Indians of Oklahoma, will speak at

The Rev. Hampton W. Anderson of Atoka, Okla., secretary for cultivation and promotion of the Oklahoma Indian Mission, served in 1961-62 as associate director of the Board's Department of Field Cultivation. In that capacity, he spoke in Methodist churches and to Methodist groups throughout the nation about the denomination's home missions program. He is a full-blooded Choctaw Indian.

Before joining the Board's staff, Mr. Anderson was a district superintendent in the Oklahoma Indian Methodist Mission for 13 years. In 1943 he was appointed superintendent of the Eastern district and later was named to the Southeastern district. Under his supervision were the pastors of 49 local churches with 2,500 members.

Mr. Anderson was born in what is now Oklahoma but what at that time was still Indian Territory. He attended Haskell Institute, Lawrence, Kan., and the University of Oklahoma. For several years before entering the ministry, he was in various phases of United States Government Service.

Ordained in 1946, Mr. Anderson was pastor of Indian Methodist churches in Muskogee and Tulsa before being appointed district superintendent. He is a member of the Oklahoma Indian Methodist Mission.

*** *** ***

(release prepared November 1962)
Board Names 2
New Executives

Nine new staff executives, ranging from a treasurer to a consultant for an international literature program, were elected by the Methodist Board of Missions at its executive committee meeting September 28 in New York. The names of three had been announced previously. The new executives:

The Rev. Hampton H. Anderson, Atoka, Okla., to be associate director of the Department of Field Cultivation of the Joint Section of Education and Cultivation;

Miss Hazel Correll, Inman, S. C., to be associate secretary of youth work of the Women's Division of Christian Service.

Miss Doris Hess, Hughesville, Pa., to be consultant for a quadrennial program of literature development in Methodist mission fields around the world (previously announced);

The Rev. Harold S. Huff, Minot, N. D., to be director of the Department of Town and Country Work of the Division of National Missions (previously announced);

The Rev. Harold H. Jenkins, Danbury, Conn., to be associate treasurer of the Division of World Missions;

Rev. John S. Kramer, Fairmont, N. Va., and New York, to be editor of the Methodist Horon magazine, beginning January 1;

Rev. Richmond Leonard, Stoughton, Mass., to be budget director of the Division of World Missions;

Miss Florence Little, Atlanta, Ga., to be treasurer of the Woman's Division of Christian Service;

The Rev. Donald E. Struchon, Leadville, Pa., to be director of the Department of the Local Church in the Joint Section of Education and Cultivation.
Mr. Anderson, a full-blooded Choctaw Indian, was born in Oklahoma before statehood, when it was still Indian Territory. After education at Haskell Institute and the University of Oklahoma, he worked in various branches of the Federal Government. Entering the Methodist ministry in 1916, he was pastor of Indian Methodist churches in Muskogee and Tulsa, Okla., and superintendent of the Eastern and Southeastern districts of the Oklahoma Indian Methodist Mission Conference. In the latter capacity, he supervised pastors of 19 Methodist churches with about 2,500 members. He is a member of the Oklahoma Methodist Conference and has been president of the Protestant Indian Council of Oklahoma.

Miss Carroll holds the bachelor of arts degree from Pfeiffer College, Misenheimer, N. C., and the master of religious education degree from Boston University. She has been educational assistant at the Trinity Methodist Church, Augusta, Ga., and has done Christian education work in North Carolina, Rhode Island, South Carolina and the Scandinavian countries. Most recently she has been instructor in Christian education at Pfeiffer College. She is a deaconess.

Mrs. Kersey is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University at Delaware and holds the bachelor of arts degree in English and sociology. She did general news reporting in West Virginia and was on the public relations staff of the Methodist Church Union, Pittsburgh, Pa., the Board of Home Missions of the former Methodist Episcopal Church and the Department of News Service of the Methodist Board of Missions. For the last three years, she has been editorial assistant for The Methodist Woman. Mrs. Kersey is the wife of the late Rev. Dr. John H. Kersey, a pastor and district superintendent in the California-Nevada Methodist Conference. She has been active in the Woman's Society of Christian Service and the Wesleyan Service Guild and is a member of Christ Church, Methodist, New York.

Mrs. Jenkins was born in Washington, Pa., and educated at Taylor University, Upland, Ind., and Drew University, Madison, N. J. She holds the bachelor of arts degree in psychology from Taylor and the bachelor of divinity degree from Drew.
He has been pastor of Methodist churches in Stamford, Springdale and Danbury, Conn. and is a member of the New York East Methodist Conference and of its Board of Ministerial Training and Qualifications. He served three years in the Air Force in World War II.

Mr. Leonard is a graduate of Bowdoin College, Brunswick, Maine, with a bachelor of arts degree in economics and has done graduate study at New York University and Boston University. With 23 years of banking experience in New York and Stoughton and Canton, Mass., he has handled all phases of commercial banking work and has been a bank officer 19 years. His most recent position was as manager of the Stoughton branch of the Norfolk County Trust Company in Boston. He has been treasurer of the Stoughton Council of churches, vice-president of the Stoughton Chamber of Commerce and a member of the Rotary Club. He has been active in the First Methodist Church of Stoughton.

Miss Little was employed for 23 years in the general accounting department of the Southern Bell Telephone Company in Atlanta. There she worked with income and disbursement accounting. As a management supervisory employee, she had responsibilities in office management and the hiring of personnel. During 1960 she worked in the secretariat of the World Council of Churches in Geneva, Switzerland. She has been active in the Moran's Society of Christian Service and the Wesleyan Service Guild and has held offices on the local church and district levels. Miss Little holds the bachelor of arts degree from Agnes Scott College, Decatur, Ga., with majors in mathematics and history and has done graduate work in theology at Emory University in Atlanta.

(October 3, 1962)
Photographs from this file have not been included but are available upon request. For more information please contact research@gcah.org