Alexandria, VA 22304

Dear Admiral Carroll:

Having completed my summer vacation, I want to follow through on the conversation I had with you several weeks ago about the new web site established by the Interfaith Committee for Nuclear Disarmament, which I chair. It is www.zero-nukes.org. Its purposes are (1) to serve as a depository for statements on nuclear disarmament from religious organizations, military leaders, civil sector organizations, and international bodies and (2) to promote dialogue on how to get to zero nuclear weapons. Please take a look to see what we are doing.

The page on Military Leaders Speak Out contains the December 1996 statement of International Generals and Admirals and the views of yourself, Admirals Gayler, Shanahan, and Turner, Generals Butler, Horner, and Powell, and Commander Robert Green of the Royal Navy. The page on Religious Statements has the statement released at the Washington Cathedral in June 2000, signed by 18 military professionals and 21 religious leaders.

We are now ready to ask military and civilian experts to bring their thinking up-to-date and provide scenarios on how to get to zero, starting where we are now in 2002. We will post these scenarios on our web site. We will also solicit comments on the various proposals and post them.

I ask your help in two ways. First, would you be willing to write a short article on your current thinking about concrete steps for the elimination of nuclear weapons? This might deal with different categories of weapons, priorities for deactivation and dismantlement, and methods of verification. Or however you want to address the issue. We are suggesting around 2,000 words, but we will accept less or more. Instructions for submitting your ideas for posting on our web site are found at <http://www.zero-nukes.org/yourfeedback.html>.

Second, can you or your associates at CDI help us find contact information for retired generals and admirals who might be willing to offer their ideas on how to get to zero? I am thinking of persons such as General Horner, Admiral Turner, the military signers of the Cathedral statement, and any other military officers you might suggest.

I will appreciate your assistance. If you want to talk with me about this, you can reach me at 301 896-0013.

With best regards,

Howard W. Hallman

The Interfaith Committee for Nuclear Disarmament, which I chair, has established a new web site, www.zero-nukes.org. Its purposes are: (1) to provide a compilation of statements and reports by religious organizations, military leaders, civil sector organizations, and international bodies on the elimination of nuclear weapons and (2) to provide a means of dialogue on steps to reach zero nuclear weapons.

We would like your permission to post a section of "The Nuclear Turning Point", Harold A. Feiveson, editor (Brookings, 1999) on this site. Specifically we want to copy the text found on pp. 15-17, ending before the sub-heading "The First Stage", and possibly Figure 2-1 on page 16 if our webmaster can scan it effectively. We will record your permission in whatever manner you prescribe.

Our intent is to place this excerpt on the How to Get to Zero page in the section on Deep Cuts. The URL for this space, now blank, is <http://www.zero-nukes.org/howtogettozero.html#deepcuts>.

The Interfaith Committee for Nuclear Disarmament is a coalition of denominational offices and religious associations working together for nuclear disarmament. Although we advocate particular positions on public issues, we are politically non-partisan and do not engage in election activities.

You can send your permission authorization to me at:

Dear

Even as Iraq is receiving the world's attention for its possible possession of weapons of mass destruction, the huge nuclear arsenals of the United States and Russia and the lesser arsenals of other known possessors remain a major concern for the peace and security of Earth. In spite of being a step in the right direction, the Moscow Treaty of 2002 retains so many U.S. and Russian strategic warheads that in practice the Cold War doctrine of mutual assured destruction (MAD) remains in place.

The Interfaith Committee for Nuclear Disarmament, which I chair, is convinced that the world can do better. Accordingly we have established a new web site called www.zero-nukes.org. It has two purposes: (1) provide a source for statements on nuclear disarmament by religious organizations, military leaders, civil sector organizations, commissions and international bodies; and (2) offer opportunity for presentation of proposals and dialogue on how to get to zero nuclear weapons.

If you visit the site, you will find that we have

We invite you to contribute to the dialogue on nuclear disarmament by writing a short article on your current thinking about concrete steps required to eliminate nuclear weapons. Your scenario might go to zero or only approach zero if you don't see how to go all the way. You might deal with stages of reduction, categories of weapons, priorities for action, methods of verification, or however you want to address the issue.

We are suggesting an article in the range of 1,000 to 2,000 words, but we will accept less and more. We will post your article on the site at <http://www.zero-nukes.org/howtogettozero.html#scenarios>. We are unable to provide compensation, but we hope that you will be willing to contribute your ideas to this forum for public discussion.

You can send your submission to me at proposal@zero-nukes.org. You can attach your article as a Word document or an .rtf file.

If you want to comment on the views of others, you can do so at <http://www.zero-nukes.org/yourfeedback.html#comments>.

Thank you for your cooperation,

General Lee Butler

Omaha, NE 68131

Dear General Butler:

The Interfaith Committee for Nuclear Disarmament, which I chair, is creating a new web site: www.zero-nukes.org. Its purposes are (1) to be a source for statements by religious organizations, military leaders, civil-sector organizations, and international bodies on the need to eliminate nuclear weapons and (2) to encourage dialogue on practical steps for achieving zero nuclear weapons.

The web site is a work in process. We have opened our home page, www.zero-nukes.org with linkage to Religious Statements and How to Get to Zero, though both are incomplete. We also have a beginning for statements by military leaders, www.zero-nukes.org/draft/militaryleaders.html.

On the latter we have taken the liberty of drawing on speeches you have made in recent years, and our webmaster has found a couple photos of you to use. Presumably your statements are in the public domain, but we want to be certain that they give a fair presentation of your views. Therefore, we make this draft available to you for review.

On the How to Get to Zero page we will have a section for the current thinking of military professionals, civil experts, and ordinary citizens on how to achieve this goal. We invite you to contribute your current thinking on the practical steps that should be taken to achieve the global elimination of nuclear weapons.

Such a scenario might encompass a sequence for getting rid of different categories of nuclear weapons. It might include some or all of the common elements recommended by the Canberra Commission and other distinguished bodies (see listing on web page). Although we have no prescribed length, the range of 1,000 to 3,000 words might be appropriate, but we would accept longer. We would like submissions to come as Word attachments or similar formats. We reserve the right to edit for length and format. We offer no compensation for such submissions.

General Lee Butler

We would, therefore, greatly appreciate your writing something new that we can include on our web page. If you want to discuss it, please call me at 301 896-0013. (I'll be out of town from June 24 until July 8).

You can find information about the Interfaith Committee for Nuclear Disarmament on www.zero-nukes.org/religiousstatements.html.

Marie,

I bought a larger monitor, which enables me to see our web page in its full width. This permitted me to take a critical look at it. Also I went again to a number of other sites to get a better feel of what they have done. This leads me to offer some suggestions for changes in our home page. I am interested in what you think of them.

1. I like the colors of our masthead. I notice that most sites I looked at have narrower mastheads than ours, which may be preferable. Our takes up extra space that might be better used for more visible text at the beginning of each major page. Therefore, I suggest cropping as indicated on the enclosed paste up, and lowering "zero-nukes, etc." In which case the blue sky might start at the horizon beyond the hills rather than having white space.

2. Keep "Feedback" on the top line (not like you changed it on the Religious Statement page), but make it "Your Feedback". On the second line, carry the brown to the right margin, as you now do on the home page (but not on the carry over to Religious Statements). Use this re-design at the head of all other major pages.

3. Looking at our home page at full width, it feels too crowded to me, as if we are cramming too much together with not enough white space. Also, the quotes from the generals and the Cathedral statement are somewhat lost. This stems from my desire to have the sponsors appear prominently. Now I realize that the short statements deserve higher priority.

Therefore, while keeping the present layout in reserve. I'd like you to try an arrangement as shown on the paste up. That entails: (a) moving the sponsors to lower on the page, (b) placing the quotes from Horner, Powell, the Cathedral statement on the left, but making them wider as indicated. This should make most of this text readable on the initial screen. (c) This will put "All nuclear weapons...." on the right. (d) With "The Story behind our Masthead" and "Photo of Sunflower Planting" below the quotes, it could come out even with "How to submit your ideas."

4. This would place the sponsors below. They can be in double columns. More are expected and can be added later. If you continue to have them in brown, I would like a lighter shade. Presently it is a little difficult to read. The Moderator would be on the right.

I will be interested in your feedback to these ideas.

Shalom,

Howard W. Hallman

Marie,

I'm still struggling with the best way to achieve feedback and receive proposals.

First, let me report that the feedback form works, except it interchanges e-mail and city, as follows:

Name: H. Wesley Hallman
Email: Bethesda, Maryland
City, State/Province, Country: mupj@igc.org
Comments: You're doing good work.

Second, a proposal doesn't go through because the e-address has nine letters in proposals@zero-nukes.org. Lighthost rejected this as one too many, so I eliminated the final "s" to make it proposal@zero-nukes.org. I thought I communicated that to you. Anyway you need to make this change.

Third, we have two types of responses we want from users: (1) comments on the site and ideas of others and (2) proposals for how to get to zero. For the first we use the Your Feedback page. For the second we have How to Submit Your Ideas on the draft of How to Get to Zero page, but it is missing from the on-line page even though I wanted it there.

As I work with the site, this all seems confusing. So my thought has evolved to handling both on the Your Feedback page and eliminating the entree in How to Get to Zero. I would like your views.

To bring this into focus I have drafted the attached revision of Your Feedback.

As revised the page would provide for (1) "Comments on Ideas of Others" linked to the Feedback Form, (2) "Your Proposal for Getting to Zero Nuclear Weapons" to be submitted to proposal@zero-nukes.org, (3) the Feedback Form, and (4) Compilation of Feedback.

The latter we would keep up to date by posting with the latest comments at the top. I recall that one time you told me there should be an index by month and year at the beginning of this section.

With Your Feedback revised in this manner, on the home page the phrase "How to submit your ideas" would be linked to "Your Proposal for Getting to Zero Nuclear Weapons" on the Your Feedback page.

On the How to Get to Zero page the paragraph under "Scenarios for Reaching Zero" would be changed to read as follows:

In this section we present scenarios for achieving zero nuclear weapons as proposed by military professionals, civilian experts, and ordinary citizens. We invite you to comment on these ideas and to offer your own proposals by going to Your Feedback. [link with that page]

How about a small sunflower inset in this paragraph to provide some color?

Marie,

I'm wondering when you will be able to catch up on the backlog of material that I have sent you. It is as follows:

For mupwj.org

12-19-02 Methodist Family page

History of Methodist Denominations

1-17-03 Adjustments to home page

1-21-03 (today) Who We Are

For zero-nukes.org

1-4-03 Changes in internal linkage

1-9-03 How to Get to Zero revision

Scenarios on How to Get to Zero

Revision for Commander Green

I like your work as a web designer. However, I wish that I could get a faster turnaround on additions to my two web sites. Of you have been out of town or ill, I can understand. But if you are too busy or if you don't like the site-maintenance phase of the business, let me know. One option would be to learn how to post material myself. I know that you once offered to tutor me. Another option would be to hire some one to do the posting after you have completed the design and then use your services mainly as review and clean up.

I would prefer to stick with you for everything, but I do need to get things on-line as quickly as possible for program reasons. Hopefully within a week of sending them to you.

Shalom,
Howard

Possible rearrangement of www.zero-nukes.org

Instead of having all entrees for each major section on a single, long page, could there be only an index for each of Religious Statements, Military Leaders Speak Out, Civil Sector Statements, Arsenals & Treaties, and How to Get to Zero on the opening page and then have separate sub-pages for major divisions within the overall page? Such sub-pages are marked with * below. Home Page now has a separate second page. Your Feedback would not be divided.

If this is done, should the masthead appear on each major sub-page? And the sponsor information at the end of each sub-page? Or not?

A Web Site of the Interfaith Committee for Nuclear Disarmament

The Interfaith Committee for Nuclear Disarmament has established a new web site called www.zero-nukes.org. It has two purposes: (1) provide a source for statements on nuclear disarmament by religious organizations, military leaders, civil sector organizations, commissions and international bodies; and (2) offer opportunity for presentation of proposals and dialogue on how to get to zero nuclear weapons.

The web site has six major sections:

- Religious Statements
- Military Leaders Speak Out
- Civil Sector Statements
- Arsenals & Treaties
- How to Get to Zero
- Your Feedback

Religious Statements deal with the moral basis for nuclear disarmament, offer broad recommendations, and consider particular issues, such as de-alerting, the Moscow Treaty, U.S. Nuclear Posture Review, and disarming Iraq without war.

How to Get to Zero presents reports of major commissions, considers steps moving toward zero, such as de-alerting and deep cuts, and provides space for proposals from military leaders, civilian experts, and other concerned persons on scenarios for eliminating nuclear weapons.

Your Feedback invites all interested persons to make comments of the views of others found on the web site and to offer their own proposals for getting to zero (or moving toward zero). To submit your ideas, go to <http://www.zero-nukes.org/yourfeedback.html>.

The Interfaith Committee for Nuclear Disarmament is a U.S. coalition of denominational offices and religious organizations that advocate the global elimination of nuclear weapons. This particular project site is sponsored by 12 denominational offices. Site moderator is Howard W. Hallman. He is chair of Methodists United for Peace with Justice and serves as chair of the Interfaith Committee for Nuclear Disarmament. For further information, contact him at hallman@zero-nukes.org.

Your Proposal for Getting to Zero Nuclear Weapons

If you have ideas to offer on how to achieve the elimination of nuclear weapons, please send them to proposal@zero-nukes.org. We will post relevant submissions up to 2,000 words on the How to Get to Zero page. To facilitate this process, please send your proposal as a Word attachment or similar format.

We offer no compensation. We reserve the right to edit submissions for length and format.

Feedback Form

[Present form with modification.]

[Add a line for Your Organization (optional). Remove "optional" from your name and your e-address.]

Compilation of Feedback

[To be compiled by date with latest on top.]

[Query: would it be better to put the Compilation before the Form?]

Re-draft of Your Feedback page. All type in Arial.
