The purpose of this finding aid is to help you understand the nature of this collection and to assist you in the retrieval of material from this collection. The following pages contain a brief biographical history of the person, or persons, who created or collected these papers; followed by a general description of the collection in the scope and content note. If more detailed information is warranted then series descriptions also appear.

The container listing appears last and is the listing of material in each box, or container, of this collection. To request material you need to turn to the container listing section. It is essentially a listing of file folders, or artifact items, in the collection. Each folder, or item, has a call number associated with it. Each folder also lists the inclusive dates of the material in the folder. On the material request form list both the call number and the folder, or item, title. Use a different line for each folder, or item, requested. When your request sheet is complete, or full, bring it to the archivist and the material will be retrieved.

Biographical Note

Frank Mason North (1850-1935), American minister, was born in New York City on December 3, 1850 and was educated at Wesleyan University. His first wife, who bore him two sons, died in 1872. In 1885 he married Louise McCoy, daughter of a Congregational minister. They had one son, Eric McCoy North, who was long-time secretary of the American Bible Society.

North served six churches in the New York Conference from 1873 to 1887. He transferred to the New York East Conference in order to serve a church in Middletown, Connecticut. From 1892 to 1912 he served as corresponding secretary for the New York City Church Extension and Mission Society (later the New York City Society). In this capacity he supervised a number of urban parishes, immigrant congregations, and inter-racial centers, including the Church of All Nations. At this time he also directed the National City Evangelical Union and edited The Christian City.

North became corresponding secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions from 1912 to 1924. He was delegate to several General Conferences (1908, 1916, 1920, 1924, 1928), the World Missionary Conference (1910), the Methodist Committee on Unification (1920-1928) and the International Mission Council (1921-1928).

North was one of the founders of the Methodist Federation for Social Service and shared in drafting the Social Creed of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Two of his main interests include socialism and labor. He also helped organize the Federal Council of Churches and was its president from 1916 to 1920. In this capacity, he contributed to works of reconciliation and relief during the war years. For these efforts he was decorated by the French and Greek governments.

North is probably best known by most Christians for his famous hymn, "Where Cross the Crowded Ways of Life." He died in 1935.

Scope Note

The Frank Mason North collection provides a generous sweep of his professional life and a bit of his personal one as well. Not only do the records illustrate North's work in various levels of ministries but also the pertinent issues of his time such as labor, immigration, politics, global conflicts, ecumenical necessities, etc. All these topics and more are reflected in the Writings series with manuscripts and sermons taking front and center among the various record types. North often wrote under pen names with Grapho serving as one example.

The Sermons, Addresses and Lectures subseries make up the largest segment of the collection with the sermons taking up most of the space. Because of the rich content in this subseries, the archivist departed from standard practice of information control to the file folder level and went with documenting individual records. A majority of the sermons were written in the late nineteenth century. North noted the date and place where a majority of the sermons were delivered. Most of the sermons were preached at churches where North served as pastor. Many of the sermons are from the Middletown, New York, Methodist Episcopal Church pulpit, but other churches are represented here such as Armenia, Cold Spring, 111th Street, White Plains, West Harlem to name a few. All of these churches were considered highly influential parishes within their respective annual conferences. It would be an understatement to say that the topics are cutting edge for their time. There are sermons on socialism, support of labor, temperance, gambling, biographies of contemporary and recent past church leaders, along with theological and Biblical topics. History of church missions played an important role in North's ministry as evident in the Manuscript subseries. Within this subseries include lists, clippings, and booklets that North used as resources.

North's artistic side can be found in the Hymns and Poetry series. Here one discovers the process by which North developed, wrote and published these works. Correspondence related to his hymns are worth a close look. There is a 1934 recording of how North came to write his most famous hymn, Where Cross the Crowded Ways of Life.

Social concerns were an important part of his urban ministry in the New York city area and subsequently beyond this region. North believed that no single church or denomination, no matter its size, could adequately minister to the large influx of immigrants residing in urban areas. Rather the solution rested in ecumenical participation in such organizations as the New York City Church and Extension Ministry. North also spearheaded various national organizations with the same concerns despite the fact that most mainline Protestant denominations continued to focus on rural areas at that time. It was out of this work where the records document his spiritual journey to help write the influential 1908 Social Creed for the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Other documents reflect North's continued ecumenical leadership in the formation and early life of the Federal Council of Churches. The Administrative Ministries series document his work as Corresponding Secretary for the Board of Foreign Missions and annual conference responsibilities. Neither subseries are substantive by themselves but augment other collections dedicated to these areas. The Board of Foreign Missions documents are focused on the Centenary Movement.

Both Frank and Louise North were strong supporters of higher education, especially to their alma maters and Drew Theological Seminary. The Higher Education series is primarily composed of correspondence. The lion's share of this series centers on Wesleyan University, Wellesley College and Drew Theological School. North graduated from Wesleyan and was an active alumnus as was Louise who went to school at Wellesley. The Drew material reflects his later teaching career at the seminary.

Family series mainly contain general correspondence for each member listed in the finding aid. The bulk of the family history content starts with North and continues on into the twentieth century.
